CHARLES WHITE ELEMENTARY SCHOOL

A Universal History of Infamy: Those of This America

Charles White Elementary School Gallery

Public Hours: Saturdays, 1–4pm | Free

2401 Wilshire Boulevard, Los Angeles,
California 90057

Enter the gallery at the corner of Park View and Wilshire Boulevard

The exhibition A Universal History of Infamy: Those of This America presents work by contemporary Latino artists, writers, and activists exploring loss, resilience, and the political potential of poetic expression alongside works from LACMA's collection.

Charles White Elementary School opened in 2004 on the former campus of Otis College of Art and Design. The school is named for artist Charles White (1918–1979), who taught at Otis for many years. LACMA has been programming exhibitions at the school since 2007.

A Universal History of Infamy: Those of This America is part of the multisite project A Universal History of Infamy and will be on view through October 6, 2018.
