The Natural History Museum of Los Angeles County presents Linda Vallejo “Meditations on the Natural World,” an exhibition of 19 oil on canvas and paper works. Exhibition Dates January 6 ~ March 12, 2006, in the East and West Ground Floor Galleries.

Linda Vallejo: Meditations on the Natural World, an exhibit of nineteen recent oil paintings by a Los Angeles-based artist, are presented in the East and West Ground-floor galleries from January 6 through March 12, 2006. This exhibit reveals an artist’s perspective on this region as a place in which turbulent physical forces continually define the land, the sea, and the sky. Based in her close observation of natural phenomena, but also charged with her fervent expressionism, Vallejo’s landscapes of Southwestern America invite our reflection on how we inhabit and experience our world, in all of its astounding power and fragile beauty. Linda Vallejo has received a Durfee Foundation ARC Award to assist in the completion of this exhibition.

Linda Vallejo paintings were recently included in the International Modern Art Biennale, Florence, Italy and the Carnegie Museum, Oxnard, CA. She is represented by the Patricia Correia Gallery, Bergamot Station, Santa Monica, CA. Ms. Vallejo’s work has been exhibited at the Armand Hammer Museum, Museum of Modern Art New York, San Antonio Museum, Mexico City Modern Art Museum, and the Santa Monica Museum. Selected Major Publications include Art Business News, ArtNews, Southwest Art, Latin Style Magazine, and The Los Angeles Times.
