NATIONAL INDIGENOUS POPULATION POSTER

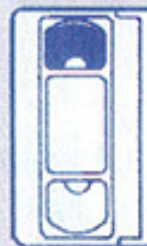

1993 has been designated as the "International Year for Indigenous Populations" by the United Nations. This designation was accomplished through the efforts of the 1992 Nobel Peace Prize recipient, Rigoberta Menchu. The award to the Guatemalan Indian-rights activist was announced in the week marking the 500th anniversary of Christopher Columbus' arrival in the New World.

This poster is entitled "Infinidad". The poster is dedicated to all Indigenous people. The artist, Linda Vallejo, is a Chicana of Tarahumara and Apache lineage. Ms. Vallejo said "You will find two and four legged relatives as well as the winged and those living in the ocean; the six sacred colors and four direction elements of the universe can be found in the artwork, images, planets, stars and the earth are present". *For collectors, "Infinidad" is available in a hand printed 13 color serigraph edition. The serigraphs are 24 x 35 and are numbered and signed. Please call for prices and availability as there is a very limited number. The poster is 18 x 29.

HARNESS THE RAINBOW

A Motivational/Training Video Series on Diversity and Change
Featuring
Dr. Samuel Betances

"In human resource circles, diversity is a hot topic. It's not surprising, considering that diversity is a key concern for most companies."

--Training & Development Journal, November '91

"America's shifting demographics dictate that a corporation's capacity to manage a diverse workforce and conduct business with a broad spectrum of people is crucial. A workforce whose demographic contents is reflective of society at large is far likelier to be better tuned into the marketplace, earning more customers, and performing more profitably."

--Human Resource Executive Magazine, November '91

Words used to describe these videos:

"Highly provocative and stimulating"

"Humorous"

"Sets the stage for change and diversity."

"Changes mindsets."
